

Alfred J. Labuz

Remediation Manager
Honeywell International Inc.

Al is a Honeywell Remediation Manager with responsibility for directing upland site investigations and the operation and maintenance of legacy issues created by the closure of the AlliedSignal Solvay, NY facility in 1985. Mr. Labuz has been with Honeywell for 41 years and has managed Health, Safety and Environmental functions at operating facilities and directed site investigation and remediation efforts at a number of Honeywell sites in multiple states.

Education

Bachelor's degree in Chemical Engineering from Northeastern University