October 2009 LC Newsletter

October certainly has arrived quickly this semester! With the flip of the calendar, the campus now finds itself in the middle of the semester as this week marks the 5th week of classes. To help you prepare for mid-terms and the eventual conclusion of the semester, check out these helpful notes below:

October 28, 2009 marks the last day in which an ESF student can drop a class. Make sure if you have not done so already, that you take time to meet with your Advisor to discuss your current academic status. If dropping a class is step you believe you must take, make sure to discuss it with your Advisor and Financial Aid before finalizing the process. Contact the Registrar’s Office for further information.

Don’t forget about the Alumni & Family Fall BBQ on October 2nd and 3rd. Contact the Office of Student Activities for more information.

Are you struggling with time management? Need help with your note taking skills? Are you worried about accidentally plagiarizing your writing assignment? The following workshops are available this October to assist you with these topics via the Office of Academic Support Services in 109A Moon:

Workshop:	Date & Time:	Location:
Plagiarism Prevention	October 7 from 5:30pm – 7pm	146 Baker
Exploring the Moon Library	October 14 from 4 – 5pm	110 Moon

 Looking for something to do at night. On October 28, 2009 in Marshall Auditorium, Poetry to the People will be performing from 8-9pm. This group is a unique blend of civil rights, self-adoration and anti-social acceptance based on both truth and fantasy. Poetry to the People gives audiences a new appreciation for the art of poetry by providing a tag-team experience that differs from any other event. Visit their website at <http://www.ilovethispoetry.com/> to learn more about their performance.

*Be sure to check out the ESF Athletics website for information about upcoming Mighty Oaks sporting events.

Have any questions? Stop by the Academic Success Center (109 Moon) or Student Life (110 Bray) so we can help you through your first year at ESF.

Good luck this semester!
