Reporting information related to sexual assault or sexual misconduct
- 34% do not know how to report sexual violence incidents to the College
- 24% do not know where to formally report a sexual assault on campus 90% to 100% of students who indicated they have experienced some form of sexual assault or sexual violence did not make formal campus reports
  - The most commonly indicated reason for not reporting incidents of sexual or dating violence was that they did not think it was important enough.

Students indicated they tell friends, roommates, or family members if they tell anyone about an unwanted sexual experience; Counseling Services was the most commonly used on-campus resource

Prevalence of sexual assault or sexual misconduct experienced by students during the last year:
  - 23% received unwanted sexually suggestive digital or written communications
  - 43% indicated unwanted experiences with sexual comments, sexual slurs, or demeaning jokes
  - 26% have experienced an attempt at non-consensual sexual touching
    - 16% of respondents indicated that this action was completed
  - 19% indicated they had experienced some form of dating violence within the past year
  - 12% indicated they had experienced stalking behaviors not necessarily dating-related within the past year

Expected campus response to reports of sexual assault or sexual misconduct
  - 65% of indicated they believe a fellow student would be “Likely” or “Very likely” to take action in a situation where someone needs help or resources
  - Student responses also indicated that students are unlikely to report an incident that was disclosed to them if they are asked to stay silent
