To the Upstate community:

Upstate University Police has completed a thorough investigation of an unconscionable display of intimidation found in a work supply area on the Upstate Community Campus Thursday.

The investigation found no evidence of any threats to campus safety and the matter has been referred to Human Resources and the Office of Diversity and Inclusion for further action.

As an employer, hospital, university, we denounce such despicable displays and are taking all lawful measures to ensure our community members are not subjected to threats of any kind.
